We at the International Refugee Assistance Project (IRAP) represent [REDACTED], an Afghan national currently in Afghanistan who has applied for special immigrant status under the Afghan Allies Protection Act of 2009 (“AAPA”), as amended. As described below, [REDACTED], her mother [REDACTED], and her sister [REDACTED] are in imminent danger because of her affiliation with the United States; accordingly, we respectfully request that you provide [REDACTED] and her family with protection or immediate removal out of Afghanistan, as required by federal law.

I. The Petitioner, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] is a single woman from [REDACTED] Afghanistan. After her father died in [REDACTED], she continued working to support her mother and sister. Her work for almost four years with a [REDACTED] project that sought to increase Afghan women’s participation in the economy put her life at risk; she and her family have received several direct threats. She now works for [REDACTED]. Until last week she was living in [REDACTED] but as the Taliban seized control, she, her mother, and her sister all fled to Kabul, where they currently remain.

[REDACTED] applied for special immigrant status in [REDACTED] 2018 and received confirmation from the National Visa Center (NVC) that her application for Chief of Mission (COM) approval was complete that same month. Since that time, she has repeatedly sought updates regarding the status of her case. In the almost three years’ time that has passed since her application was submitted, the only update that NVC has provided is that her application is “under review. . . . [and it] cannot estimate how long this review will take.”

[REDACTED] has a brother in the United States, himself a special immigrant visa recipient. Her father also worked for an international organization for more than twenty years and her family’s longstanding, public affiliation with U.S. and international entities increases the risk that she faces. [REDACTED] is worried about her safety and that her work with the U.S. Government has put her mother and sister’s lives at risk. Further, as three single women living in Taliban-controlled Afghanistan, their lives are at a particularly great risk.

II. The Secretary’s Protection Obligations Under the Afghan Allies Protection Act

In the AAPA, Congress created special immigrant visas (“SIV”) for Afghan nationals whose lives are in danger because of their service to the United States during our military mission in Afghanistan. In providing that visa route, Congress also determined that Afghans applying for SIVs should be protected while they remain in their home country; the AAPA thus directs the Secretary of State, in consultation with other agency heads, to make “reasonable effort[s]” to provide protection to Afghans seeking special immigrant status (and their families) who are in imminent danger, “or to immediately remove [them] from Afghanistan, if possible.” AAPA, § 602(b)(6).

In recognition of this congressional directive, the moral imperative underlying it, and the imminent danger faced by special immigrant visa applicants as the U.S. military withdraws from Afghanistan, the State Department recently began coordinating “Operation Allies Refuge,” to evacuate some Afghan SIV applicants who are at the final stages of visa processing.<sup>1</sup> Under Operation Allies Refuge, a limited number of applicants and their families are being removed from Afghanistan and taken to the United States or to a third country to await the completion of their visa processing in safety.

Unfortunately, ██████████ was left out of Operation Allies Refuge. Although ██████████ applied for special immigrant status in 2018, and notwithstanding the congressional directive that Afghan SIV processing should generally take no more than nine months,<sup>2</sup> ██████████ is not yet at the latter stages of processing required for inclusion in Operation Allies Refuge. For several reasons, we ask that ██████████ and her family not be left behind.

First, the congressional mandate to protect or evacuate Afghan special immigrant applicants in danger plainly applies to applicants like ██████████, and no less than to those at later stages of processing. Like them, she faces imminent danger because of more than four years of service with U.S. affiliated organizations. Additionally, ██████████ faces additional risk because she is a single woman who is known for working with internationally supported organizations to advance the rights and opportunities for women in Afghanistan, including with the United States.

Similarly, the moral imperative to protect those Afghans who have risked their lives to work alongside the United States in Afghanistan is in no way based on particular visa processing stages.<sup>3</sup> The Afghan SIV process in particular has long been plagued by inadequate resources, opaque processes, arbitrary denials, and unlawful delays.<sup>4</sup> Grafting evacuation eligibility onto stages of processing only aggravates and amplifies the years-long neglect of the Afghan SIV program, and makes life-saving evacuation needlessly dependent on the vagaries of the visa processing bureaucracy.

And to be clear, ██████████ and her family members face imminent danger: the grave and growing threat from the Taliban, which has swiftly retaken the country save the airport in Kabul. As the country has fallen to Taliban control, news outlets have reported widespread revenge killings of civilians, like ██████████ and her family, associated with foreign governments.<sup>5</sup> This reality is well known to the U.S. Government, which has advised SIV applicants like ██████████ ██████████ to shelter in place while the U.S. military works to evacuate U.S. citizens.

Removing ██████████ and her family from Afghanistan is also plainly possible, as demonstrated by the ongoing evacuation of American citizens, notwithstanding the Taliban's gains. Even before that, Operation Allies Refuge demonstrated the feasibility of evacuating our Afghan allies to safety while their visa processing concludes, and senior military officials have stated publicly, including in sworn testimony to Congress, that the United States could evacuate far more Afghans than just those SIV applicants at the latter stages of processing.<sup>6</sup>
